Wilson:

Thank you for your work and the work of your students to help our company.

I appreciate the opportunity to speak at the local HQ venue last fall. That was a fun and educational experience.

I also want to thank you again for engaging your upper class students this past spring to interview me, analyze our company and make a presentation on how they see our company now and how some suggestions may strengthen our company's marketing position in the future.

You have been great to work with. I hope we can continue to work together in the future.
